About contracts and relationships

By WILLIAM L. TRIMYER
COVENANT VS. CONTRACT
Lesson for October 30, 1983
Bible Study Passages: Exodus 19:5-6; Hebrew 8:6-13

Introduction

In the business world you hear a lot about contracts. When certain services are sold a contract becomes the symbol of agreement. A contract basically states that if you provide a certain service or product we will pay you a certain fixed amount of dollars.

Because of the tremendous divorce rate in our country, some couples are drawing up legal contracts before they step up to the nuptial altar. Human relationships based upon contracts are bound for certain potential hazards. Intimacy may be difficult to achieve when a relationship is founded upon a contract.

We hear less and less about covenant relationships. A covenant is different from a contract. A covenant basically states that I will love you no matter what. A covenant is not founded upon payment for services or upon the idea that "I will do for you if you do for me."

This week's lesson looks at the gracious covenant God made with his people. We will study how a covenant is based only upon love and grace.

A Covenant of promise [Exodus 19:5-6]

God's desire was for Israel to love him as he had shown his love for Israel during the "great escape" from Egypt and in the gift of a new land. In this covenant God asked for Israel's loyalty and love, to accept responsibility for their part in the covenant agreement. God would be true to his part in the covenant relationship. Israel could count on God's faithfulness.

If Israel would enter into this covenant agreement they would enjoy God's protective care. To back out of the covenant would mean certain destruction. Thus, a covenant differs from a contract in that two parties may break a contract and not necessarily suffer.

To maintain the covenant agreement would mean that Israel would be God's "peculiar treasure." The term "peculiar" implies belong to God.

The Covenant Christ [Hebrew 8:6-13]

God's covenant with Israel went through many testings. Time and again Israel disregarded the covenant promises they made to God. Time and again they went back upon their word. God knew that an even better covenant would be needed to draw this wayward people unto himself. The time came when the Mosaic law must be fulfilled by a savior who would transcend the law.

Jesus came as God's Son and not as God's servant, as was Moses. Christ became a mediator between God and the people of Israel. Since the old covenant had its flaws due to the sins of the people. The flaw was in Israel and not God. He had been faithful to the covenant, but now it appeared that a new and better covenant was needed. The old could not continue to exist alongside the new.

I recently helped a friend rebuild a deck on back of his house. From the outside appearance it looked as though we would not have to replace everything. But as we began to tear away the outside frame we discovered that the supports beneath were also rotten. We had to replace the entire structure.

Christ came to transcend the old and bring about a new day. This was accomplished through his sacrificial life-style and death upon the cross. His death became the means whereby we are forgiven of our sins and made acceptable by grace. On Communion Sunday we celebrate this new covenant with Jesus' words, "This is my blood of the new covenant, which is poured out for many for the forgiveness of sins" (Matthew 26:28, RSV).

Mrs. James William [Dickie] Beale Jr.

Jamerson, Beale wed

The marriage of Miss Tammy Lynn Jamerson to Mr. James William (Dickie) Beale Jr. took place on Saturday, Oct. 22, 1983, at two o'clock in the afternoon at New Hope Baptist Church in Appomattox.

The Rev. Bob Williams, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring, candlelight ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Alice Franklin Burks, organist; Mrs. Betty Garrett Craft, pianist; Mr. J.C. Rogers, guitarist and soloist; and Miss Jo Ann Carol Jamerson, soloist. Selections included "The Wedding Song", "Longer", "O Perfect Love" – Irish Traditional Melody, "Truly", and "Through The Eyes of Love".

The bride, escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents, wore a formal gown designed by Susan Brent, created in white satin, layered with white tulle illusion with a high neckline shaped with a pearled schiffli lace ruffle. The leg-of-mutton sleeves, trimmed in white illusion and lace, gave an old-fashioned touch. A trim satin bodice fell into a full skirt that draped into a sweeping cathedral train. The edge was flounced with schiffli lace ruffles carressed with schiffli lace. White tulle illusion flowed gracefully from a pouf into a fingertip veil. The bride carried a silk cascade bouquet of white and ruby roses, stephanotis baby's breath, and was accented with pearls and lace. She wore earrings of miniature pearls embedded in a heart shape that were first worn by her mother in her wedding.

Miss Jo Ann Jamerson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a formal floor length gown of pink chiffon. Leg-of-mutton sleeves and tiny neckline ruffles accented the design. The hemline was flounced with a wide ruffle ascending to the back waistline. She wore a pink veil adorned with a headpiece of matching silk roses. She carried a white monogrammed satin covered Bible, a gift from the bride. Her Bible was fashioned with pink old-fashioned roses accented with an orchid.

Bridesmaids were Miss Lisa Ann Mann of Appomattox, Miss Beth Ann Caldwell of Appomattox, Miss Angela Renee Jamerson of Appomattox, Miss Sonya Jamerson of Appomattox, and Miss Christy Dawn Dunn of Lynchburg; all cousins of the bride. Their dresses and veils were identical to that of the maid of honor. They also carried white monogrammed satin covered Bibles fashioned with pink old-fashioned miniature roses; gifts from the bride.

Mr. James William Beale, Sr. of Appomattox, father of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Mark Kendall Hunter of Appomattox, Mr. Robert Collins Hubbard of Appomattox and Mr. Thomas Fuller Craven, Jr. of Lynchburg, nephew of the groom. Mr. Robert Watkins Jamerson, Jr. of Appomattox, cousin of the bride, Mr. Gregory Dean Jamerson of Appomattox, brother of the bride. They wore gray Dorchester tuxedos with white pleated shirts and gray bow ties. The groom wore a white Dorchester tuxedo with a white pleated shirt, white tails, and a white bow tie. Their boutonnaries were fashioned of white roses for the ushers and a single ruby rose for the groom.

Miss Trudy Lynn Jamerson of Shipman, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl. She wore a white formal gown and veil identical to that of the honor attendants. She carried a white wicker basket dressed with pink ribbons from which she dropped ruby rose petals.

Master Chad Franklin of Appomattox was ring bearer. He wore a formal white tuxedo identical to that of the groomsmen and carried a white satin pillow.

Mrs. Dot Davidson of Appomattox served as mistress of ceremonies. Miss Carla Diane Vann of Appomattox [illegible] at the guest register while Miss Debra Joy Hawkins, also of Appomattox, was program attendant.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Jamerson chose a formal ruby colored georgette gown. She wore a silk corsage of ruby roses accented with lace. Mrs. Beale, mother of the groom, wore a formal navy gown. She wore a corsage of silk ruby roses accented with lace.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church. Mrs. June Chenault of Appomattox and Mrs. Edith Scruggs of Appomattox were in charge of the reception. They were assisted by Mrs. Rachel Tweedy of Concord, Mrs. Arlene Loving of Amherst, Mrs. Nellie Beale of Appomattox, and Miss Yvonne Beale of Appomattox.

The bride is a graduate of Appomattox County High School and is employed by Babcock and Wilcox, Naval Nuclear Fuel Division as Accounts Payable Clerk.

The groom is a graduate of Appomattox County High School and is employed by Progress Printing Company of Lynchburg, Inc. as a web pressman.

For her going away outfit, the bride wore a pleated wool skirt and monogrammed navy sweater. She wore her mother's corsage of ruby roses and lace. For his going away outfit, the groom wore a navy blazer with a ruby tie, white oxford and gray pants. He wore a single ruby rose boutonnaire accented with baby's breath.

Following a wedding trip to the Poconos in Pennsylvania, the couple will reside in Lynchburg.

UDC held luncheon

By MARGARET LEE

The Appomattox Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy met at Maude's Restaurant on Thursday, Oct. 20 at noon for their regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. O. W. Martin, Jr., president, presided, leading the pledge to the United States flag and salute to the Virginia flag and to the Confederate flag.

Mrs. Dot Wilkerson read the ritual and the Confederate prayer.

Mrs. Frances Harvey gave a report on the Division Convention meeting held in Charlottesville on Oct. 4, 5, and 6 that she, Mrs. O. W. Martin Jr. and Mrs. Harriett Cunningham attended.

Mrs. Lucille Ferrell, historian presented the program, "The Monitor and the Merrimac."

The Merrimack with the K is the name of the U.S. Navy vessel named for the Merrimack River in Northern Mass. The Federals were forced to abandon the Norfolk Navy Yard on April 20, 21, 1861. The Merrimac was in the Navy Yard waiting for engine repairs and the Federals burned and schuttled the ship. The Confederates raised her and made her an ironclad ship and changed the name to Virginia.

The Virginia was completed March 5 and on the 8 sailed into Hampton Roads with a crew of about 350 to attack the Federal ships there. The Monitor was able to out maneuver the Virginia. At noon the Virginia fired on the pilot house and a shot struck the right hole of the Monitor causing the Federal ship to withdraw.

On May 9 the Confederate had to destroy their ironclad because she could not go up the James and was not seaworthy enough to sail to a new costal base.

The "Monitor" was lost in a gale off Cape Hatteras on Dec. 31, 1862. The duel between the ironclads introduced a new era of naval warfare

The meeting concluded with Mrs. Lucille La Farce leading the group in singing "Bless Be The Tide."

The chapter will meet again Nov. 17 at Maude's Restaurant.
